Things you need to consider

Depending on your age, contributions can be made by you or on your behalf.

If you are aged 65 to less than 70: To be eligible to make your own personal contributions, receive spouse contributions and for your employer to make non-mandated contributions (voluntary contributions including salary sacrifice) to your superannuation account, you generally must have been gainfully employed for at least 40 hours within a period no more than 30 consecutive days during the financial year in which the contributions are made (known as the Work Test). From 1 July 2019 you may be eligible to apply the Work Test Exemption, which allows you to make your own personal contributions for 12 months following the end of the financial year in which you last met the Work Test. To be eligible, you must have a Total Superannuation Balance of less than $300,000 at 30 June of the previous financial year and not have applied the Work Test Exemption previously. Mandated employer contributions can be made to your superannuation account at any time.

If you are aged 70 to less than 75: To be eligible to make your own personal contributions and for your employer to make non-mandated contributions (i.e. voluntary contributions including salary sacrifice) to your superannuation account, you must have been gainfully employed for at least 40 hours within a period of no more than 30 consecutive days during the financial year in which the contributions are made. Mandated employer contributions can be made to your superannuation account at any time. Please note that you are ineligible to receive spouse contributions. Please also note that contributions must be received within 28 days of the end of the month in which you reach age 75.

Should you wish to continue making contributions into your account each financial year, you will be required to complete a new Superannuation Contribution Eligibility Declaration form before the first contribution is made each year.
